Re: Period for disclosure of information

To: Managing Directors

Listed companies, asset management companies, trust managers, member companies and non-member securities companies

The Stock Exchange of Thailand (SET) has extended trading hours in the Afternoon Session which will start 30 minutes earlier. This is to increase flexibility for investors to have more time in trading securities.

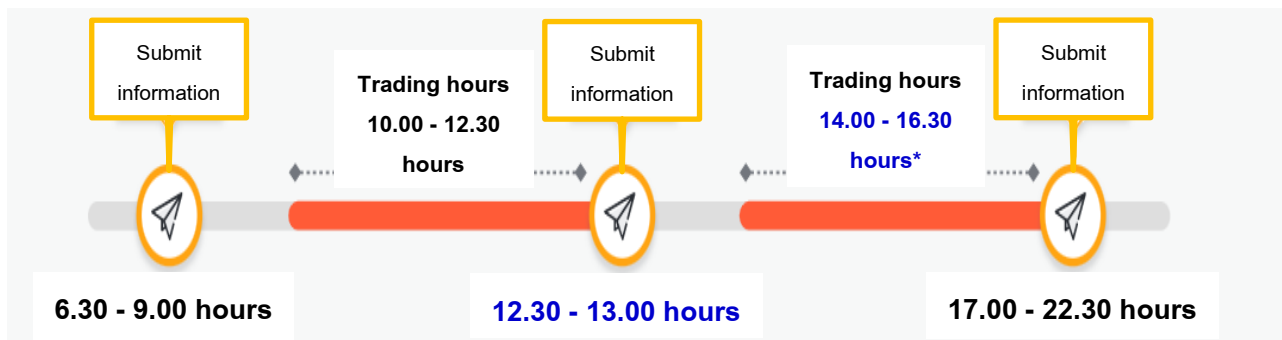

In order for investors to receive sufficient information for making decision as before, SET has determined period for disclosure of information during the intermission to 12.30 - 13.00 hours instead of 12.30 - 13.30 hours. The period for disclosure of information is still according to the current principles which are;

1. The listed company shall disclose the information without delay on the date of the occurrence of event as following period:

- At least 1 hour before the trading hours or
- After the trading hours

2. Where the Listed Company is unable to disclose the information within such period due to force majeure, the listed company shall disclose the information at least 1 hour before the trading hours of the first session on the following business day.

The aforementioned of period for disclosure of information will be effective as the same effective date of the new trading hours, on March 25, 2024 onwards. The period for disclosure of information are summarized as following:

Please be informed accordingly.

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) Pakorn Peetathawatchai
